

YATP students make a big impact wherever they go.

The small, conservatory style program admits the best suited, dedicated students with similar goals by audition each year. Most of our students train with the program for more than five years, or until graduation when they move on to both professional careers and outstanding university programs. Many of our alumni, who are working professionals today, credit YATP with giving them the strong foundations for their careers in the arts, having a strong work ethic and a competitive edge.

We train young professionals.

Work hard. Play hard.

This fun and challenging day camp is perfect for new, beginning musical theatre students to experience the YATP program & for current Beginning - Intermediate YATP students that are wanting to expand and improve their technique and skillset. Not "pay-to-play", our program teaches solid technical skills for young, professional artists. This is a "long game" program for serious students

Students will work on proper vocal technique, along with audition techniques and prepare ensemble numbers from Broadway's Hottest Musicals, under the leadership of Stephanie Riggs, Educational Director/Master Teacher & several talented YATP interns with a very low teacher/student ratio.

Students should bring a sack lunch, bottled water and snack daily.

All students should have a pencil, binder, and recording app on phone (to make recordings in class for at home practice) each day. Wear clothes to move in with rubber-soled shoes & hair tied back. Detailed emails with daily schedule breakdowns, what to prepare for the BEST camp experience ever, and other details will be sent prior to the start of camp.

Build confidence.

Start as you mean to finish.

This camp is a special opportunity for all interested students to have the opportunity to coach with renowned Educational Director & Master Teacher, Stephanie Riggs. Ms. Riggs has a 30 year teaching history coaching young professionals and building children's self-confidence. Her alumni students are currently working across the U.S. and Europe on stage and in film/T.V. projects. Additionally, she is a top college audition coach. Her students that choose to pursue the arts have gone on to study the arts at prestigious universities, most with scholarships. She is known for bringing the best out in her students and holding high expectations in a warm, supportive family style environment. The YATP program is small by choice for students to have the most individualized, specially created educational experience, specific to their needs. It is like no other program in the Metroplex.
